

NO. 11,814 41ST YEAR

COLORADO SPRINGS, COLO., TUESDAY, JANUARY 14, 1913

PRICE FIVE CENTS

JUDGE ARCHBALD IS FOUND GUILTY; MUST LEAVE BENCH

Forever Barred From Holding Any Office of Public Trust; Five of 13 Charges Are Substantiated by Evidence

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Robert W. Archbald of Scranton, Pa., for 29 years a member of the Pennsylvania state bench, and a federal district judge and the United States commerce court, was adjudged guilty today by the United States senate of crimes and misdemeanors. He was stripped of his office and forever disqualified from holding positions of public honor or public trust.

The conviction and judgment came at the conclusion of the impeachment trial that has been pending in the senate since last summer on charges that Judge Archbald had been guilty of misconduct and misbehavior as a judge, and that he had used corruptly his official power to further the private interests of himself and his friends in the acquisition of coal properties in Pennsylvania.

Upon five of the 13 separate charges brought against him by the house of representatives, Judge Archbald was found guilty. Upon the other eight charges the senate voted him not guilty. The majority in some cases being against him, but failing of the two-thirds majority necessary for conviction. Any one of the five verdicts of guilty was enough to bring about the punishment imposed upon him.

TAFT ANNOUNCES HE HAS COMPLETED PLANS

Will Not Make Peace Tour Goes to Yale April 1—To Be in Canada

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—President Taft has completed plans for the first seven months of his citizenship after March 4. He will take up the duties of a law professor at Yale, and will not make a tour in the interest of peace and arbitration. He will reside in New Haven, but for three months of the seven he expects to live in Canada.

Mr. Taft will leave Washington with Mrs. Taft and Miss Helen Taft on March 4 after the inauguration of Woodrow Wilson. He will be the guest of that city until March 27. Charles D. Hilles, his secretary, and Mrs. Hilles also will be guests of the city of Augusta, Me. Mr. Taft, the president's brother, and Mrs. C. P. Taft, John Hays Hammond and Mrs. Hammond are expected to visit the Tafts at Augusta. He expects to leave Augusta in time to arrive in New Haven at the beginning of the spring term of Yale university. There he will reside at a local hotel, remaining in New Haven through commencement, which is in June. This commencement will be the thirty-fifth since the president was graduated and his class will hold reunion.

After commencement Mr. Taft will go to Murray Bay, Canada, for a three-months' stay. On September 3, 4 and 5 the president will attend the annual meeting of the American Bar association in Montreal.

He has written a personal letter to Lord Haldane, the British chancellor, asking him to attend the congress. From Murray Bay Mr. Taft will return to New Haven to take up the work of the fall term.

The president informed friends today that he had no idea of going into a new partnership with anybody.

COLORADO DEMOCRATS FIND TARIFF PLANK HARD ONE TO ADHERE TO IN STATE POLITICS

Governor-elect Ammons Will Be Inaugurated Today: Shafroth Delivers Message

By WALTER LAWSON WILDER.
DENVER, Jan. 13.—The principal business in the general assembly today was the hearing of the retiring governor's message to the legislature. This was delivered in person by Governor Shafroth and it was attentively listened to by members of both houses.

It was mainly devoted to a summary of progressive legislation adopted during the past four years and of additional measures that have been pledged to the people and that should be acted by this assembly.

The chamber senators rose in their places as their names were called and pronounced the word "guilty" in almost inaudible tones. The vote on the first charge, that Judge Archbald had corruptly influenced officials of the Erie railroad to sell him the Katydol culm dump at Senator resulted in his conviction by a vote of 63 to 5. In a little committee room off the gallery floor, behind a guarded door, Judge Archbald, his wife and his son Hugh sat throughout the afternoon as the senate voted upon the charges against him. The first vote of conviction was carried to him by his son from the gallery. After sentence had been imposed upon him, Judge Archbald and his family left the capitol to go at once to the family home at Scranton.

"I Have Done No Wrong"—Archbald.
"I always have known that I have done no wrong, and the vote of no one makes it otherwise," was his only comment upon the senate's action.

Sentence was imposed by Senator Bacon of Georgia, the presiding officer, after the senate, by a vote of 39 to 35, upheld a resolution offered by Senator O'Gorman of New York authorizing the full penalty provided by the constitution.

"The senate therefore does order and decree," said Senator Bacon, "and it is hereby adjudged, that the respondent, Robert W. Archbald, circuit judge for the United States for the third judicial circuit and designated to serve in the commerce court, be and he hereby is removed from office, and that he be and hereby is forever disqualified to hold and enjoy any office of honor, trust or profit under the United States."

The sentence of the senate became operative at once and directions were given that the president and house of representatives be notified of the verdict and the punishment imposed.

Is Third Convicted on Impeachment.
Of the 10 men who have been impeached before the senate since the organization of the government, Judge Archbald is the third to be convicted, and the only one convicted who appeared to make a personal defense against the charges brought to the house of representatives.

Voting on the charges began as soon as the impeachment court had been reorganized at 1 o'clock. On each of the articles Senator Bacon, after the secretary had read the charges to the senate, put the formal question: "Senators, how say you, is the respondent, Robert W. Archbald, guilty or not guilty as charged in this article?"

Each senator, under the rule, arose in his seat and gave his verdict.

This first article charged that Judge Archbald had gone to officials of the Erie railroad, while that road had a suit pending in the commerce court, and had corruptly influenced them to agree to give him a favorable option in the Katydol culm dump. The vote in detail on this charge was:

Guilty—Archbald, Bankhead, Borah, Bourne, Brandegee, Brewster, Brown, Burton, Chamberlain, Clapp, Clark of Wyoming, Clark of Arkansas, Crane, Crawford, Culberson, Cullum, Cummins, Curtis, Dixon, Duntz, Fletcher, Foster, Gallagher, Gore, Grimes, Hitchcock, Johnson of Maine.

ter would not be pushed. This decision marks the collapse of the effort to prevent the election of former Governor Thomas, who received the preference vote of the people at the recent election.

Short Appropriation Bill.
The short appropriation bill was passed on third reading this afternoon, and now goes to the senate, where it is likely to be approved, though objection may be made to some items.

As passed the bill includes for an appropriation of $10,000 to be expended by the governor and the attorney general in defense of the water rights of the state. This was opposed by some of the Denver members, who favored a decrease of this amount to $20,000, but they found only seven votes in their support.

When the resolution asking for a decision from the supreme court as to who is entitled to the office of lieutenant governor was presented to the

ELECTORS IN 48 STATES CONVE

CANVASS OFFICIAL VOTE CAST ON NOV. 5

Wilson and Marshall Will Be Proclaimed Elected on February 12

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Electors in 48 states met today and formally elected Woodrow Wilson to the presidency and Thomas R. Marshall to the vice presidency of the United States. Returns prepared by the electors chosen at the polls last November now are on their way by mail to Washington, to the president pro tem of the senate. Another set of these returns will be brought in person by an elector from each state, to be canvassed February 12 in joint session of the senate and the house.

Wilson formally will be proclaimed president.

In two of the states, Utah and Vermont, four votes each were cast for President Taft for president and Nicholas Murray Butler for vice president, the latter having been named by the Republican national committee to succeed the late James S. Sherman on the Republican ticket.

Democrats Control Wyoming.
CHEYENNE, Wyo., Jan. 13.—With 15 Republican and 11 Democratic in the senate and 30 Republicans and 27 Democrats in the house, the Wyoming legislature convenes tomorrow noon, with a strong possibility that two Republican representatives, reflecting their party caucus, will vote with the Democrats on organization, giving the latter party the house control.

The senate caucus today agreed on organization, and elected Birney H. Sage of Cheyenne president; J. C. Jeffries of Weston county, vice president; E. L. Emery, chief clerk.

Barriers Broken Down.
SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 13.—In an address to the electors Governor Hiram W. Johnson, who received the 11 Progressive votes for vice president, pleaded for nonpartisan achievement.

"You are requested only to refer to the last campaign," he said, "it accomplished one thing. The geographical barriers which heretofore have existed between the east and the west have been broken down, and a man from the west may now aspire to any position in the gift of the United States. It is enough for me to have been the first man over the mountains with California's nonpartisan message."

Roosevelt Gets Michigan and Penn.
LANSING, Mich., Jan. 13.—Michigan's presidential electors today cast their vote for Roosevelt and Johnson for president and vice president.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 13.—The 38 Pennsylvania electors, after casting their votes for Roosevelt and Johnson today, adopted resolutions declaring for the continuance of the Progressive party and calling for a national convention.

Break Deadlock in Massachusetts.
BOSTON, Jan. 13.—Congressman John W. Weeks of Newton received today the unanimous support of the Republican majority in the legislature for the junior senatorship of Massachusetts, now held by W. Murray Crane, who declined the candidacy for reelection. The action was reached after a four-day party caucus, in which 31 ballots were taken. Democratic legislators decided to support Sherman L. Whipple of Boston, the opponent of Senator Lodge in the last senatorial contest.

Manitou Deal May Be Closed Today

Believed Chicago Men Will Buy Property at Cost of $350,000

Word is Expected Today from Chicago that will close the deal for the sale of the holdings of the Manitou Mineral Springs Co. in Manitou, according to S. Z. Schneek of Pueblo, who holds the option on the property and who came to Colorado Springs yesterday to make final arrangements for the transaction.

"The sale is practically closed with the Chicago group of bankers who have been looking into the matter for the last five weeks," said Mr. Schneek, at the Antlers hotel, last night. "There are a few details to be worked out, but the terms proposed by the owners are equitable to the Chicago men. I feel that the sale is almost certain," he said.

Mr. Schneek will be here several days. He was formerly manager of the Union Trading Co., and secured the option some time ago and interested the Chicago people. E. C. Walker, a Chicago broker, is handling the Chicago end of the deal. The names of the prospective buyers have not been made public.

The property includes the two soda springs, Manitou city park, the pavilion, bottling works and bath house. The deal is said to involve $350,000.

PROGRESSIVES TO SUPPORT

WILSON?

Predicts There Will Be No Division in Ranks of Democrats

DEPENDS ON BUSINESS MAN People of Nation Are Waking Up to Their Responsibilities, He Asserts

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 13.—Governor Wilson, for whom the majority of the states in the Union officially cast today their electoral votes for the president, proclaimed in a speech to the New Jersey presidential electors that he was voting his election as the distinct expression of the progressive impulses of the country.

"I shall not be acting as a partisan when I pick out progressives and only progressives," he said, "the governor said in an analyzing the spirit that he said had produced his election.

The governor predicted there would be no division in the ranks of the Democratic party.

"Those Democrats," he said, "who hitherto have been slow to align themselves with the progressive section of the party are yielding everywhere. The business men of the country, too, are swinging around to an unselfish and broader view of their duties to the people."

The speech was delivered at a luncheon given for the electors by the Democratic state committee just before the official ballot was cast.

"I feel that it would be unbecoming in me," he said, "to speak in other tones than that of a man who believes that he is speaking for the men with whom he is associated. Some men have been slow to observe, but the majority of us have seen that the people of the United States have taken a definite choice. I happen to be one of the instruments through which that choice is expressed. I am for the time, and that choice is for the long future. The people of the United States have turned their faces in a definite direction and any party, any man who does not go with them in

WORK ON HOME WILL START IN 3 WEEKS

Stratton Trustees Tell Legis- lature Buildings Will Be Under Way Soon

That the trustees of the Myron Stratton Home corporation will proceed with the construction of the first 13 buildings of the institution, according to schedule, and that they will let the contracts on the specified date, January 21, is the statement given out at the office of the corporation yesterday.

A letter signed by William Lennox and Dr. D. M. Rice was sent to the speakers of both houses of the state legislature last Friday, in which they gave their word that contracts would be let and work started within 30 days of that date, which will be February 9.

Fifty-six contractors had applied for data on the plans and specifications of the buildings up to last night. The bids are to be submitted by 10 a. m. Tuesday, when they will be opened by the trustees and Architect Bischof.

EACH OF ALLIES ASKS ADVANTAGE

DELEGATES HAVE NOT YET LEFT LONDON

If War Is Resumed, Bulgaria and Turkey Will Be Held Responsible

LONDON, Jan. 13.—S. P. Howard Gray, British foreign secretary, and the ambassadors of the powers are making strenuous efforts for a peaceful settlement between Turkey and the Balkan allies. They have a conference in London, and Richard Bagehot, chief secretary of the treasury, and Lord Curzon, again being plunged into war through the obstinacy of either side, the party at fault would incur a heavy weight of disapproval.

At a long meeting of the ambassadors today, the note to be presented to the parties was discussed passage by passage. The general impression prevailed among the ambassadors that the final decision on war or peace must come from Turkey as it seems certain that the allies never will consent that Turkey should withdraw its army from the Balkans.

Much is being heard from the influence of Kiamil Pasha, Turkish grand vizier, who is a man of extraordinary influence. He has succeeded in restoring the good relations between Turkey and the triple entente, and so far has prevented the powers from assuming an active anti-Turkish attitude.

Each Seeking Advantage.
The Balkan delegations are active in efforts to obtain advantages for themselves in the partition of conquered territory. The kings of Bulgaria, Greece and Montenegro are working among their friends and relatives on the other shores of Europe to influence the powers toward their claims for a division of the spoils. Speedy envoys have been sent to some of the capitals to supplement the work of the regular diplomatic representatives.

The Greeks are continuing their campaign against the Turks in Ephesus where sharp encounters took place today. According to dispatches to Premier Venizelos, the Greek forces are attempting to surround Janina, in an effort to shut off supplies from the north.

The Turkish delegates have made no move to carry out their threat to leave London.

LONDON, Jan. 14.—The Times says that a grand council of all the leading civil, military and religious notables met at Constantinople yesterday to decide whether Turkey should cede Adrianople. The decision of the council may be published today.

SCOUTS ENGAGE OUTLAWS: MANY KILLED IN BATTLE

MANILA, Jan. 14.—A detachment of scouts under Lieutenant Fletcher came upon a large band of outlaws yesterday day in South Lanao, according to reports received here. A general en- gagement ensued. One message from the scene of action says that 50 out- laws were killed; another that 50 out- laws were killed. The scouts suf- fered no loss of life.

MINER IS KILLED IN FALL 300 FEET DOWN SHAFT

TECUMSEH, Feb. 12.—Alejandro Ramirez, a miner with a penchant for "physical wit," lost his life through amusing himself by trying to step on the fingers of a fellow-miner who was preceding him on a ladder down the shaft of the Tecumseh mine near this city. Ramirez lost his footing and fell 300 feet. The other miner dodged the falling body.

NEW MEXICO FACES POLITICAL STORM

Legislature Convened Today for Second Time Within One Year

SANTA FE, N. M., Jan. 13.—New Mexico's state legislature convenes at noon tomorrow for its second session within less than a year and the prospects are for scenes equally if not more exciting than the first session, when a senatorial deadlock extending over three weeks culminated in the arrest of four house members charged with soliciting and accepting bribes the election of two Republican sena- tors and the subsequent acquittal of the accused senators.

When the legislature opens tomorrow it is expected a fight immediately will be precipitated to depose Speaker Roman L. Baca. A three-cornered combination is expected to result in the election either of Blas Sanchez, a Republican member, John Baron Burg, a Progressive, or J. W. Campbell, Democrat.

Next to the speakership controversy, interest centers in the probable election of a United States senator to succeed Albert B. Fall, whose term expires March 3, next, unless his second alleged election by the last session should be held valid by the senate committee on privileges and elections, which is regarded as doubtful. The committee has been asked for an immediate ruling that the legislature may dispose of the senatorial matter.

NO TARIFF ON LUMBER, BUT HIGH DUTY ON SILKS, PLAIN

Manufacturers Protest That Canadian and Mexican Interests Would Destroy the Industry in the United States

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Free rough and dressed lumber, shewn and squared timber, shingles, laths and fence posts, re- tention of approximately the present high tariff on the higher grades of silks and reductions in the cheaper silks used by the common people, and a penalizing, drastic tariff bar to shut out "dynamited" silk, were indicated today as parts of the expected Democratic tariff revision program.

The house committee on ways and means devoted the day to hearings on the wool and silk schedules of the tariff law, and when the testimony and examinations were closed, the committee reported the inclusion of those provisions, possibly together with free trade in the tentative tariff plan. The committee will submit to the extra session of congress.

The inclusion of the testimony on the woolen schedule was a blow for the preservation of the tariff rates.

Says Competition Is Keen.
George W. Jones, representing the North Carolina silk association, said he thought as no crisis had been built up by a protective tariff, but in the lumber industry, as competition there was keen. He was asked if all the lumber in the west was not owned by two great concerns. He answered that he was not familiar with the west. He said that while the labor most in eastern Canada was about the same as in the United States, it was much less in western Canada.

"I assume," he said, "that they employ Chinese labor in western Canada."

Yes, suggested Representative Harrison of New York, I know they pay a day there for even the most primitive labor.

Jones conceded that the elimination of the tariff would cheapen lumber. That is why I am for it, said Representative James.

Country Not Ready.
Jones answered that the country was not ready for a free trade bill. The witness said that Mexico was standing at our door, a threatening competition. Representative Hill of Connecticut said he thought there was more apprehension aroused from abroad, particularly Siberia.

A. L. Greer of Tennessee, N. Y., protested that a reduction on dressed lumber would make it impossible to meet competition from Canada. Testimony regarding silks presented a complexity of technicalities.

"Silks are a luxury," said Chairman Underwood, "that is most silks." Mr. Underwood outlined his view, in which he represents the Democratic majority of the committee that will frame the new schedule.

Wants to Tax Luxuries. "We want to get a large amount of revenue on luxuries," said Mr. Underwood.

CASTRO APPEARS BEFORE IMMIGRATION OFFICIALS

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—General Cipri- ano and Castro, former president of Ven- ezuela, now detained at Ellis island by the immigration officials, was taken today before the special board of in- quiry, which is to determine whether he may enter the United States. Gen- eral Castro appeared without counsel.

The findings of the board must be submitted to Secretary Nagel of the department of commerce and labor before final judgment is made public.

PRINCE ALIX AGAIN ILL

LONDON, Jan. 14.—A St. Petersburg dispatch to the Daily Mail says that Crown Prince Alexis again is confined to his bed.

DEATH RIDES ON SEAT OF CARRIAGE TAKING J. F. BURNS HOME FROM SEMBRICH CONCERT

Joseph Kelley, Aged Driver, Falls Dead From Seat; Death Due to Attack of Heart Failure

While the joy of living thrilled auditors of Sembrich's golden voice, and as they lingered in the Burns theater last night until the last echo had faded away, death stalked after a closed carriage conveying James F. Burns, owner of the theater, James F. Burns, Jr., and James B. Cralle, Jr., up Cascade avenue from the theater to their homes.

Death brushed by them in claiming Stephen Kelley, 62 years old, driver of the carriage. Stricken with heart failure he fell lifeless over the footboard directly in front of the home of Coroner-elect Lawrence Boyle, 308 North Cascade avenue.

Glancing out the carriage window, Mr. Burns saw the form of the man in a limp heap below the driver's seat, with a dull light of the carriage lamp shining on his face. He called to the driver and receiving no response and observing that the team was about to stop, alighted from the carriage. He found the man dead with the reins slipping from his hands.

Mr. Burns notified the occupants of the Boyle home, who summoned the coroner-elect. He removed the body to his undertaking establishment, 18 East Klaya street, while heart disease is assigned as the cause of death. It will be determined today whether an inquest will be necessary.

Mr. Burns, his son and their guest were taken home in the carriage by a driver who was summoned. Their escape from death or serious injury is regarded as remarkable as many automobiles were passing and a collision with the driverless team or a runaway might easily have occurred. The scene of the death was in a dark spot away from the rays of the street lights.

Kelley had lived in Colorado Springs for 15 years and for about eight years had been in the employ of the Antlers stables, for which he was driving when he met death. He also had been employed by Wandell & Lowe and by Charles Frost. He is survived by his widow and six children and had recently moved with his family into the 500 block on North Corona street.

MAN KILLS HIS WIFE THEN SHOOTSELF

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 13.—Donald Jadin, son of a wealthy Brooklyn family, shot and killed his wife, Minnie Van Bergen Jadin, prominent in society here, as she sat at dinner with other members of the family tonight. He then shot himself and died within a short time.

They had been married seven months and, until a short time ago, were happy in the quiet life in which Mrs. Jadin's family held him. She was 35 years old and her husband was six years older.

For two months the young couple lived with Mr. John A. Bauer, the wealthy grand-uncle of Mrs. Jadin, on Pacific avenue. According to members of the family, Jadin and his wife quarreled to day and, on the morning of Jan. 13, he left the house in a rage.

Tonight, when all the family, including the young wife's mother, grandmother, aunt and brother, were at the dinner table, Jadin came into the dining room, apparently happy, and ready for a reconciliation. He approached his wife, smiling, kissed her tenderly, and, in a flash, whipped out two pistols and shot twice.

Both bullets took effect, and the young woman died instantly.

Turns Revolver on Self.

Before the horrified relatives could move, Jadin placed the muzzle of one of the smoking revolvers to his head and pulled the trigger. He fell unconscious.

Jadin was rushed to a hospital, where he died two hours later.

The wedding of the daughter, Miss Van Bergen and young Jadin, was one of the leading society events of the city last June. They had met in the summer of 1911, while crossing the Atlantic, and became engaged during a summer abroad.

Jadin, whose home was in Brooklyn, N. Y., came to California in March, and the marriage took place June 7. After the honeymoon they took a bungalow in San Rafael, a suburb of San Francisco, and remained until Thanksgiving day, when they came to San Francisco to spend the winter.

Until recently Jadin spent all of his time at home or at the clubs, in several of which he held membership. From his father he had inherited a substantial interest in a wholesale drug company in Brooklyn, now conducted by his brothers. For the last few weeks he has been connected with the auditing department of the General Petroleum company.

Donald Jadin was a brother of Mrs. Frank R. Aufses, San Francisco society leader, and a cousin of the president of the Bank of California.

SHAFROTH WOULD HAVE GOVERNOR APPOINT ALL EXECUTIVE OFFICERS OF THE STATE

In Message to Legislature He Recommends Short Ballot and Other Reform Measures

DENVER, Jan. 13.—A constitutional amendment providing for a "short ballot" with all the executive officers of the state appointed by the governor, was recommended to the Nineteenth general assembly of the state of Colorado by John P. Shafrath, its retiring chief executive, in his biennial message today. The governor calls attention to the present needless ballot law, which he says makes it difficult for the voter to pass upon the merits of the individual candidates for state offices. He adds:

"The governor's general policy held responsible for the action of the legislative department of the state, and he ought to have officers in such departments in sympathy with his administration. The last election for United States senator, among other recommendations made by Governor Shafrath, who was designated by the voters of the state at large, are the following:

On Confederation Policy.—Bank guaranty law, employees' compensation act, single board of control for all penal and charitable institutions, presidential preference primary elections, a law designed to lessen danger of coal mine explosions, a state automobile tax for improving highways, an appropriation of $100,000 for state representation at the San Francisco and San Diego expositions in 1915.

The governor asserts that the federal government's confederation policy has been so detrimental as to render development of our natural resources almost impossible.

He urges legislation to prevent monopolization of the natural resources of the state to prohibit any one individual or corporation owning or controlling more than 5,000 acres of coal land in Colorado.

A similar law with regard to forest lands, and a law preventing an individual or corporation acquiring or controlling water power plants of a capacity in the aggregate of more than 30,000 horsepower, also are recommended.

Salient Features of Message.—Colorado produced more substantial wealth last year than ever before in her history.

Names 33 laws enacted during his administration which he terms progressive and constructive.

Highly commends the management of the penitentiary and the merit road work system in vogue there.

Is against the system of pardons. Believes prisoners should be released only after they have merited release as provided under the indeterminate sentence law.

Commends the work of presidents of all state institutions.

Forty Millions for Rivers and Harbors

1913 "Pork Barrel"

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—The first "pork barrel" appropriation bill of the present session of congress was reported to the house today when the house rivers and harbors committee brought in its annual appropriation bill providing $40,000,000 for the improvement of rivers and harbors throughout the country. The committee agreed upon the measure after a stormy session that lasted several hours.

The largest single appropriation in the bill provides $5,000,000 for the improvement of the Mississippi river from the head of passes to the mouth of the Ohio. Other Mississippi river appropriations are:

One million dollars for improvements from the mouth of the Ohio to the mouth of the Missouri; $1,500,000 from the mouth of the Missouri to Minneapolis; and $2,000,000 from St. Paul to Minneapolis.

$2,300,000 is provided for work on the Missouri river; $2,000,000 to be expended from Kansas City to the mouth of the river; $150,000 from Kansas City to Sioux City and $150,000 from Sioux City to Fort Benton.

An appropriation of $1,000,000 is provided for the improvement of the mouth of the Columbia river, Oregon.

Among the important provisions in the bill by states are:

California—San Joaquin harbor, $121,000; Oakland harbor, $75,000; San Joaquin river, including Fremont channel and McLeod lake and Stockton and Mormon channels, $136,732.

Oregon—Nehalem bay, $100,000; Coos bay, $50,000; Columbia and Lower Willamette river, below Portland, Ore., $150,000; Columbia river, at Cascades, $100,000; between The Dalles Rapids and head of Celilo falls, $60,000.

Washington—Okanogan canal, $62,500.

Hawaii—Honolulu harbor, $225,000.

The bill also provides $250,000 for examinations, surveys and contingencies of river and harbor improvements.

LEGISLATIVE LINES ARE HIGHLY DRAWN

Representative Persons of El Paso County Champions Reform Measure

Special to The Gazette.

DENVER, Jan. 13.—The first real alignment between the progressives of all parties and the standpatters occurred this afternoon in the legislature. The telephone company had installed booths in the capitol building and offered free long distance service to members of the legislature.

A resolution was introduced in the house by Ardour, Democrat, of Boulder, calling attention to the proffered free telephone service, and asking the legislature to go on record refusing it. After a very short debate, one of the standpatters moved to lay the resolution on the table. The motion carried, 24 to 27, and cut off all debate.

Another resolution was immediately drawn by Persons of El Paso, in which he directed attention to the public utilities measure before the legislature, in which it is stated that certain public utilities corporations offer such free service.

Persons Champions Measure.—The Persons resolution specified that it be the sense of the legislature that the members refuse franks or such free service from all public service corporations.

The resolution favored by the Progressives, together with the progressive element of the Democratic party, was introduced this afternoon. Two copies of the resolution were printed, and while it was drawn by Representative Persons, and introduced by him, the Democrats secured the duplicate copy and had it read over the signature of Gates, Democrat. Both Progressives and Democrats supported the resolution.

The motion of a standpatter, that the resolution be laid on the table, lost, 24 to 29, and another standpatter declared, in the heat of acrimonious debate, that the Progressives and Democrats were playing to the galleries and the newspapers.

The resolution carried by a vote of 26 to 28. Thomas and Persons of El Paso voted for the resolution, and Kavanagh of El Paso voted against it. It is understood that a motion will be made tomorrow to reconsider the resolution.

GRANDMOTHER USED SAGE TEA TO DARKEN HER FADED OR GRAY HAIR

Mixed With Sulphur it Makes Hair Soft, Beautiful, Cures Dandruff

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and abundant with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

Put the brewing at home is messy and out of date. Nowadays skilled chemists do this better than ourselves. By asking at any drug store for the ready-to-use product—called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy"—you will get a large bottle for about 25 cents. Some druggists make their own, which is usually too sticky, so insist upon getting Wyeth's which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, feverish, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says his customers insist on Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, because, they say, it darkens so naturally and even that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use too. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. Do this at night; in the morning the gray hair disappears after another application or two; it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and abundant.

ONLY 12,000 CARS OF CITRUS FRUIT; WILL BEG CHEAPER RATE

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 13.—Instead of the estimated 40 odd thousand cars of citrus fruit, it is probable, according to fruit and railroad experts, that not more than 12,000 cars of oranges and lemons will be shipped east from this region when the frost-bitten crops are gathered. Weeks will elapse before the aggregate value of the combined crop will be known.

At a meeting of representatives of the transcontinental railroads entering Los Angeles and the citrus protective league of southern California today formal protest was made by the growers for a 50-cent freight rate on oranges of 50 cents per 100 pounds, a reduction of 25 cents from the regular rate. The railroad men promised to take up the matter at once with the connecting railroads and the interstate commerce commission, which first must sanction the rate.

It was agreed at the conference that only such fruit should be shipped as was well matured and well colored. Only the least damaged fruits will be packed for shipment.

To Abolish Customs Officers at Ports; Cut Down Districts

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—The treasury department's tentative plan for the reorganization of the customs service, it was learned today, contemplates the abolition of all customs naval officers and "surveyors of customs," confining the port administration to collectors and deputy collectors.

It also is the department's intention to deprive the collectors at ports along the Great Lakes and the Canadian border of their present perquisites from the sale of manifest blanks, and turn this revenue into the treasury.

In reducing the existing 165 customs districts to less than 50, the treasury department's plan provides for placing each district in charge of a collector and each port in charge of a deputy collector.

No existing port will be abolished, and many supports will be made ports.

THE UNDERWOOD TYPEWRITER

AGAIN PROVED CONCLUSIVELY IN A PUBLIC DEMONSTRATION ITS SUPERIOR QUALITIES IN

SPEED ACCURACY STABILITY

Operated for eight solid hours (continuously) by 8 of the world's fastest typists, in half-hour relays, one Underwood Typewriter (taken from stock) produced the magnificent total of 55,944 words, averaging nearly 10 strokes per second. The crucial test of stability was here shown. Nowhere, at any time, has a typewriter turned out such a tremendous amount of work in the same time. This is a world's record.

The UNDERWOOD TYPEWRITER in the International Speed and Accuracy Contests won:

- First Nine places in the World's Championship.
- First Four places in the World's Amateur Championship.
- First Two places in the World's School Championship.
- Breaking all former records.

Every record, every year, in every contest is held by the UNDERWOOD.

ARGUMENT IS BEGUN ON OREGON RAILROAD BILL

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 13.—Argument on the Oregon initiative rate bill passed at the last election was begun in the federal court today before Judge Oliver McWorter and Bash. This bill, which has created a great commotion in northwestern traffic circles because it is the first time that the people of the United States have undertaken to legislate details of railroad rates, will be attacked by the railroad vigorously.

MADAME SEMBRICH CHARMS WITH MAGIC OF HER VOICE

By ALBERT C. PEARSON.

The huge throng that gathered to see Madame Sembrich was a fine and good one, and the great audience is right in the money for the artist's performance.

What a woman! The highest musical standard in every tone. Power, color, nuances of tone, expression and tempo. Her singing is a thing of beauty, but as the singer went on, one saw that each phrase was but a strong planned for its place in the perfect structure. Every agent had its meaning, every phrase, its message. No matter what she sang, whether it was the coloratura work of the Grand Opera, the sustained Wagnerian, Puccini's delirious "The Last Will of the Duke," or the bewilderment difficulties of "Kismet," the instant decision was this: it is perfect art. Thank God that the world has a Marcelle Sembrich.

Mr. Frank La Forge is not a concert pianist. His solo work shows a rather dry tone and lacks distinction. But as to his accompanying, that is another matter. His powers in that direction are phenomenal. His support, sympathy and discretion are little short of amazing, and he surely stands in the front rank of accompanists of all time. He is also a gifted song writer. His "The Messenger" won an instant success.

Albert E. English dies.

Albert E. English, 62 years old, a prominent musician, died last night at 10:30 o'clock at his home, 1522 1/2 North street, after a lingering illness. He was leader of the Alto Vista vocal quartet, and an organist in the church. For several years he was president of the Colorado Springs Musical Union. He leaves a widow and two children—a son 15 years old and a daughter 7. The funeral will be held here, but arrangements have not yet been made. The body will be taken to Minneapolis, Minn., for interment.

DENVER ASSESSOR MAY PROCEED WITH LEVY

DENVER, Jan. 13.—Judge Granger W. Whitford in the district court today sustained demurrers to petitions for injunction against Assessor Claire J. Pletcher. The ruling of the court permits the assessor to proceed with the contemplated valuation of 10 per cent in the assessed valuation of property. The injunction suits were brought by the city and by the state tax commission. Notice of appeal was given by the plaintiffs.

MARRIAGE OF DIVORCEES OUTSIDE OF STATE LEGAL

DENVER, Jan. 13.—The Colorado court of appeals today decided that a marriage contracted outside the state is legal in Colorado, even if it takes place within a year after the granting of a divorce to one or both of the parties by a Colorado court. The state laws forbid marriage within a year after a divorce is granted.

The second charge was not sustained. The vote against Judge Archbald, 49 to 35, being two short of the necessary two-thirds. On the third charge, involving the use of the influence with the Lehigh Valley railroad to force it to relinquish a lease on "Packer No. 3," a coal property which Judge Archbald refused to sell to the accused jurist was convicted by a vote of 50 to 15. Senators Brandegee, Clark of Wyoming, Crane, Smoot, Stephenson and Thornton, who had voted "guilty" on the first article, voted "not guilty" on this charge.

Guilty on Fourth Charge.

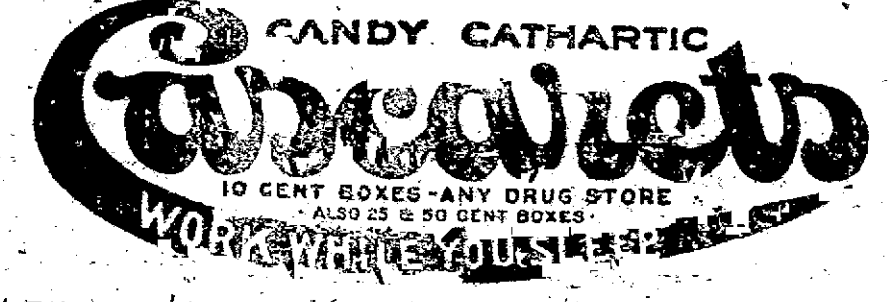

Another verdict of "guilty" came on the fourth charge, that Judge Archbald wrongfully and without authority, an attorney for the Louisville & Nashville railroad, to secure his assistance in preparing a decision in a case, then before the commerce court. The vote on this charge was 52 to 20. Additional senators who voted "not guilty" on this charge were:

Burnham, Catron, Clark of Wyoming, Oliver, Paynter and Penrose.

He was convicted, 55 to 6, on this article.

On the last article of impeachment, alleging that Judge Archbald had sought credit from attorneys and litigants before him, and had carried on a general business in coal land speculations, many senators asked to be

DISSOLUTION PLAN OF RAILWAY MERGER MEETS WITH FAVOR

Plans Center Around C. P.

It is acknowledged generally that the plan to separate the Southern and Union Pacific systems now centers around the ownership of the Central Pacific. The plan is to divide the system into two parts, the Southern and the Union Pacific. The plan is to divide the system into two parts, the Southern and the Union Pacific.

Overcoming Obstacles.

James N. Walker, chairman of the Southern Pacific protective committee, today said that some of the more serious obstacles to the separation of the Southern and Union Pacific systems have been overcome. The plan is to divide the system into two parts, the Southern and the Union Pacific.

Two New Counties Favored.

Two bills for new counties have been presented to the assembly and are now under consideration of the house committee on counties and county lines. One of these is for the county of Amherst, which is composed of the extreme western portions of Mesa and Garfield counties with the county seat at Durango. The Garfield county delegation is not strongly opposed to the new county, and the portion proposed to be taken from that county is remote and not easily reached. The opposition from Grand Junction is strong and the prospects of success for the advocates of the new county are not especially good.

Report on Amendments.

Under the rules of the house, the short appropriation bill does not carry any allowance for the state institutions, each of which must have a separate measure on its own account.

In the senate this afternoon the secretary of state reported officially the result upon the amendments, initiated and referred laws submitted at the last election. This was done in response to a request by the senate, and for the reason that some senators desire to offer amendments to those laws. It is an interesting question, not yet decided, whether any initiated or referred law may be amended by the assembly, though no denial of such action was contained in the initiative and referendum amendment.

Another constitutional point soon to be decided is whether the legislature may take advantage of the provision which gives it authority to pass a law necessary to public health or safety, without submitting it to the gauntlet of the referendum. An eight-hour law for miners has been introduced which contains the express declaration that it is necessary to public health and safety, and a decision will be asked as to whether it can be delayed for a submission to the people at the next general election.

WHAT ABOUT THE STREET RAILWAY?

ONE result of the agitation against the Stratton estate trustees will undoubtedly be the sale within a short time of the Stratton properties. Mr. Stratton provided in his will that the various properties should be sold, and this obligation the trustees will not be likely much longer to disregard.

The disposition of one of these properties, the street railway, is of the greatest moment to Colorado Springs. This city's future as a resort town may be said to depend more upon the future ownership of the street railway than upon any one other cause. If the street railway is used to open up and develop as many attractions as possible, then Colorado Springs as a resort will prosper; if the street railway company adopts a niggardly or short-sighted policy, then Colorado Springs will suffer.

It is of vast importance, therefore, to Colorado Springs, what becomes of the street railway. The system must not be permitted to pass into unfriendly hands. Why should it not, indeed, become the property of the people of Colorado Springs themselves?

It is true there are but few cities in the United States that own their street railways. But that does not necessarily argue that the policy of municipal ownership is unwise. In San Francisco the newly-opened municipal railway is making a most excellent showing. The little city of Lethbridge, Canada, owns its street railway, and finds that it pays. In Europe, of course, the policy of municipal ownership is almost universal.

The people of Colorado Springs should consider the matter most carefully before permitting the line to pass into the hands of strangers. The line is now a paying concern, and it could probably be operated more cheaply by the city than at present. The city, in connection with its waterworks, owns a magnificent supply of power, which could be cheaply developed. For the present, of course, that power is tied up, but that will last for only a few years longer.

The line could unquestionably be secured and operated by the city without any increase in taxation. Indeed, as business increases, either fares could be lowered or the earnings of the road applied to the reduction of taxes. At once, probably, without impairment of the road's ability to pay expenses, the double fares to Cheyenne canon and Manitou could be abolished and those double fares probably cause more condemnation of Colorado Springs than any one other thing.

It would not do to say offhand, of course, that the city is legally empowered to take over the property. Yet the provisions of the charter all seem to point that way. Section 47, which sets the debt limit of the city at 3 per cent of the assessed valuation, contains this limitation:

Provided, however, that in determining the limitation of the city's power to incur indebtedness there shall not be included bonds issued for the acquisition of water, light or other public utilities, works or ways from which the city will derive a revenue.

This provision is copied almost verbatim from the twentieth amendment to the constitution. In section 2 of the charter, where the powers of the city are defined, occurs this paragraph:

(d) Shall have the power, within or without territorial limits, to construct, condemn and purchase, lease, acquire, lease, add to, maintain, control, operate, waterworks, light plants, power plants, transportation systems, heating plants, and any other public utilities, works or ways, and to use and extend the same in part or in whole, and to acquire, for the use of said city and the inhabitants thereof, and any such systems, plants, or works or ways, or any contracts in relation or connection therewith, that may exist and which said city may desire to purchase, in whole or in part, the same or any part thereof may be purchased by said city which may enforce such purchase by proceedings at law as in taking land for public use by right of eminent domain, and shall have the power to issue bonds for the purpose of the taxing districts, at any special or general election, in any amount necessary to carry out any of said powers or purposes.

This provision, too, follows closely the wording of the twentieth amendment. It should be remembered, further, that this home-rule amendment, adopted at the last election, expressly legalizes every provision of the charter of Colorado Springs. From a casual inspection, therefore, it would seem that Colorado Springs has the power to take over the railroad.

But the important point is this: Either Colorado Springs must buy the railroad, or some private interest will. The Stratton trustees will not be permitted much longer to hold the property. If the railway is sold to private interests it goes without saying that the stock will be even more heavily watered than at present. Colorado Springs, for many years, will have to pay interest on this fictitious valuation. This is almost certain to happen; it may happen, in addition, that the railway will fall into the hands of capitalists entirely out of sympathy with the desire of the people of Colorado Springs to develop the natural attractions of this region.

Isn't the matter at least worth serious investigation? Would it not be well for the city council to investigate thoroughly the proposition? Should Colorado Springs sit idly by and see this property pass beyond our control without making any effort to retain ownership here?

SHAFROTH'S LAST MESSAGE

GOVERNOR SHAFROTH, in his last message to the legislature, enumerates the laws that have been secured during the past four years, claiming that these laws have made Colorado the most progressive state in the Union. This is the claim that was made in an editorial in The Gazette two weeks ago. Governor Shafroth does not attempt to take all the credit, either personally or for the Democratic party, for the passage of these laws, which he could not well do, in view of the fact that the more important were adopted by the people themselves, through the initiative, and were supported by men and women of all parties.

The governor devotes considerable space to a review of the record of the penitentiary for the past four years. Here he is entitled to full credit, for Thomas Tynan was his appointee, against the wish of the politicians, and the governor has at all times supported the warden's policy. Governor Shafroth may well point to the reformatory work that has been accomplished here as the great monument of his administration. Colorado's method for the re-building of criminals has been so successful that it is everywhere taken as the model.

Governor Shafroth also takes credit for the fact that, during the past two years, but two pardons have been granted. This, too, is a good record. For, as the governor says, since the passage of the law allowing prisoners by good conduct automatically to reduce their terms, "it is far better for the prisoner and the due administration of the law that there should be a general rule, by which prisoners are enabled to earn their own liberty, than that individual pardons should be granted, which must of necessity discriminate against convicts, who have no means with which to employ counsel, and in favor of those who have wealth or influence."

Of the way of new legislation the governor recommends:

A railroad anti-pass law.

A public utilities commission law.

A bank guaranty law, framed upon the Texas law, under which the banks are given the option of paying a percentage upon their deposits for a guaranty fund, or of guaranteeing their own deposits by a bond to the amount of their capital and surplus.

An employee compensation act.

An act providing for a board of control for all social and charitable state institutions.

The repeal of the assembly feature of the state primary law.

An act establishing a presidential preference primary election.

A short ballot law, making the executive officers of the state appointive by the governor, as the president's cabinet is.

A usury law, making 12 per cent the maximum rate of interest.

A reapportionment law.

An act providing for the appointment of a commission to recommend reform in legal procedure.

A coal mining law.

An automobile tax law.

An appropriation of $100,000 for exhibits at the San Francisco and San Diego expositions.

Laws to prevent monopoly of our natural resources.

A law limiting the amount of campaign expenditures, and providing that no contributions can be made save to the campaign committee.

Progressives of all parties are agreed as to the necessity of the passage of most of these laws. With the last two, however, there is bound to be much dissent. Governor Shafroth, anticongressionalist to the last, thinks that by limiting the amount of coal land any one company may hold, or the amount of water power that may be appropriated by one company, all reason for federal conservation would end. He seems to ignore the fact that monopolies form, in spite of law. How, for instance, could he prevent the formation of a number of coal companies, by friendly interests, all of whom would work in harmony? He proposes to limit to 30,000 horsepower the holdings of any one power company. Even if he could do that, would it in all cases be wise? It will take more than that amount of power to supply the Denver & Rio Grande, if it is electrified. Why should that company be forbidden, under proper restrictions, from forming a company to supply all its needed power?

As to the governor's campaign contribution law, it would give too much power to the state committee. If the individual can didate were forbidden to accept contributions, he would be at the mercy of the state committee. It would give the committee power to slaughter a candidate unfriendly to it.

Governor Shafroth's parting admonition may well be pondered by the legislators of all parties.

"The people in this day and generation expect men and women who are elected to office upon specific pledges to redeem each and every one of the same. They are contracts of honor, and I urge you, in the interest of good government, to fulfill the same."

GOMPERS.

To the Editor of The Gazette:
 "Ain't it awful to call the president of the A. F. L. a 'blatant demagogue'?" or the leader of a "rabble," as Webster is quoted by brother "Spivins." I do not give a rap for the editor who called the president of the A. F. L. a "blatant demagogue," but in due justice to said editor, he involuntarily hit the nail on the head when he wrote that assertion.

Why? Because the 2,000,000 members in the A. F. L. do not count as men and women; not counting as men and women, they do not elect their president any more than they polish the moon; not having their choice of high monkey monks in their organization, the great bulk of the membership in the A. F. L. cannot be considered anything short of a mob.

The term "federation" implies unity; it implies an organized army fighting some enemy. But such is not the case with the Tammanyized A. F. L. that is split into 50,000 local unions, each union looking out for itself and voluntarily "scabbing" on some sister organization. For instance, the printers are "scabbing" on the pressmen, the railroad conductors, engineers and brakemen on the switchmen, firemen and shopmen, the garment makers on each other. Yet this is all right; they are all recognized as good union men by the mother scab-organization, whose chief executive was justly called a "blatant demagogue."

The doctrine of "everybody for himself and the devil take the hindmost," practiced by the A. F. L. unions and strongly upheld by its leaders, has resulted in the vile tactics pursued by a lot of labor leaders, with the consequence that a number of them landed behind prison bars.

The leaders of what some joker called the "separation of labor" have now become the bulwark against any progressive movement of the working people. It is high time for them to tell these gentlemen: "It is easier for a camel to pass through the eye of a needle than it is for a labor skate to work in the interests of the working class."

Tastes and Incomes

By RUTH CAMERON.

A most extraordinary letter came to me the other day.

A woman wrote to ask me to tell her how to spend money.

She is a working woman between 30 and 40 years old.

She is making a little over $20 a week.

She has been self-supporting for many years, and during the first part of this time she had to save and scrimp and deny herself so stringently that now when she is earning a comfortable sum and could dress decently and have a few luxuries, she actually doesn't know how to spend her money. Her income has increased more rapidly than her tastes, and she wants my advice as to how to spend money like other people.

Was ever anything more exactly contrary to the ordinary condition of affairs than this? For every man or woman whose income has increased more rapidly than his or her tastes, I wonder how many there are in this country whose tastes have increased more rapidly than their incomes. Ten thousand would probably be putting it low.

Isn't it, indeed, one of the greatest causes of unhappiness and envy, of extravagance and discontent, in this country, that so many of us have gotten the habit of allowing our tastes to race with our incomes and usually win out?

Let me take a typical case for example. Six years ago Margaret, a young stenographer, was earning $10 a week and finding it as ample for her needs as we ever find any sum. At this time she thought she good price to pay for a suit. Four dollars for shoes, 15 for a hat, a dollar or two for a blouse to wear to work, was her ordinary outfit. Once or twice a month she indulged in the extravagance of a 25-cent manicure, but she shampooed her own hair and looked upon facial massage as the exclusive property of the ladies in the society columns. One of her greatest extravagances was to pay 10 cents for a cake of toilet soap and 25 cents for a good cream. In the summer she took her vacation at a small summer resort where she paid $10 a week for board. I believe she saved a 5-cent "rodent" that got its living by eating and constantly crying poverty. Where does it all go? Well, let's see.

Her last winter suit cost $15. It was marked down from $20. She had meant to have her last year's hat trimmed over, but the suit made it look so shabby that she bought a new one for $15. For her shoes she pays $5 and $6. Her simplest blouse is a special tailored model for $3. She has a 50-cent manicure every week. She has her hair shampooed and indulged in facial massage now and then. She uses an ultra special toilet soap for which she pays 25 cents, and an imported cream for 50 cents.

When she goes away in the summer she stays at a hotel, paying $25 a week for a tiny attic room. I don't think she saves at all.

Now do you wonder that the $22 disappears faster than the $10 did?

The class in this country that has enough and can save, is the thirty lower middle class in which the tastes and standards haven't yet begun to skyrocket. Many a man earning $22 a week, and having a family of five or six, is putting by a tidy sum.

Are your tastes growing more rapidly than your income? If they are, look out. Happiness does not lie that way.

Chautauquas

By GEORGE FITCH,
 Author of "At Good Old Givash"

A Chautauqua is an institution of learning which uses everyday fresh air instead of college atmosphere. The first Chautauqua was founded by one of the first fresh air cranks. He believed that series of lectures delivered in a comfortable room would tone down the horrors of acquiring an education to such a degree that many middle-aged people, who would be run over and seriously injured on it they got on a college campus, would eagerly seek up learning, the popular price of admission.

This proved to be the case and the original Chautauqua is still attended by many thousands who live happily by the lake side at Chautauqua, New York.

"Was founded by one of the first fresh air cranks."

York, during the summer, perfecting themselves in art, literature, philosophy, stenography, crocheting, burnt-wooding, brass hammering, basket weaving and other branches of wisdom.

The Chautauqua has become so popular that it now spreads all over the country like a light rash, beginning in June and continuing until the nights cool off. All that is needed to pull off a Chautauqua is a large tent, some pine seats and plenty of "talent." "Talent" is sold by the lecture bureau and comes in $50, $100, $500 and $1,000 lots. A plain orator can be secured for $50—an orator with a press agent for $100. Ordinary congressmen bring $200 if lively, and governors and senators of the first grade get $500. The highest class of talent gets $1,000 a night and consists of great ministers, great curators, and William J. Bryan.

The Chautauqua has usurped the place of baseball in our small towns and has become the prevailing summer amusement. Every year 25,000,000 American people congregate under tents to listen to ministers, educators, humorists, jubilee singers, string bands, politicians, monologists, revivalists, impersonators, authors, explorers and brass bands and to absorb from them enough wisdom to last through another long and hard winter.

Chautauquas are very beneficial to the nation, but it has been recently noticed that the senator who has knocked down another senator can usually command a higher price in the Chautauqua circuit afterwards and that the explorer who has computed his diary with a false horizon made by the aid of a basin of water drawn from a Los Angeles faucet gets more money for telling what he doesn't know than a scientist who never got any free advertising.

These facts are dimming the glory of the Chautauqua to some extent.

LAWYERS ARGUE CASE OF CALIFORNIA OIL LANDS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—An empire of oil lands worth probably more than $100,000,000 was the prize which groups of opposing lawyers fought for in the supreme court today. The case was the argument of what reply the court should make to a request for instruction from the United States circuit court of appeals for the Ninth circuit, which was unable to decide whether the Southern Pacific Railroad company or Edmund Burke and other separate entities, were entitled to valuable tracts of land now being the grudging tooth of California.

The railroad company has received patents to the land. The government recently brought proceedings to have the patents canceled, but that question is not before the court. The patents contained a provision—excepting all mineral lands from the grant. This provision, which now furnishes the principal contention.

Burke and those in a similar position claim that the exception prevented the land passing to the railroad and that they are entitled to the land under proper entry. The railroad contends that the exception is void and anyway, that evidence cannot now be produced to show the lands are mineral or oil lands, the government having issued a patent for them and not having been practiced upon.

THE HASKIN LETTER

THE GAELIC LANGUAGE

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

One of the strongest proofs of the hold which the Irish nation will ever have upon the hearts of its people is the affection with which they cling to the old Gaelic tongue with all of its ancient traditions. Notwithstanding the fact that English supremacy made that language official upon the Emerald Isle, there have been few families who have not in their own circles lapsed frequently into the use of some old Gaelic expressions. The number of native Gaelic speakers in Ireland, according to the last census, was 580,000, or about one-seventh of the population. Many of these never have learned to speak English, and those who have still use the old tongue upon every possible occasion. It is estimated that there are now in Great Britain and Ireland at least 1,000,000 people who claim Gaelic as their native language and speak it.

Because an Irishman is Irish wherever he goes, the interest in Gaelic is not confined to the British Islands. The love of the mother tongue has gone with him in all his journeyings, and wherever there has been an Irish colony of long standing there is apt to be at least a few who are able to speak the ancient Gaelic. In every large American city numbers of people will be found who are continually striving to preserve the language in all its purity. In the early '70s some patriotic Irish Americans began to devise means for the study of this language in America, and the interest has increased continuously. Largely through the influence of Timothy Frederick Halvey of Philadelphia, who is widely known in Irish American circles as the founder of Robert Emmet day (March 12), the first Gaelic schools were established in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia and Buffalo. From these schools have developed amiable classes so that in every important city it is easy for an interested student to receive instruction in the Gaelic language.

Interest in Gaelic Language.
 Mr. Halvey worked in cooperation with the Gaelic League, which has its headquarters in Dublin, with branch organizations in all parts of the world. One of the league activities consisted in sending a number of Gaelic-speaking Irish lace makers to the United States to demonstrate their work. Mrs. Halvey, who was one of the women members of the World's fair in Chicago in 1893, arranged for these young Gaelic girls to make their lace as a part of the exhibit of Irish industries.

Afterwards they went to different cities, creating a demand for the beautiful lace which is still popular. From the time of the World's fair in Chicago there has been an increased interest in the Gaelic language manifested upon this continent.

The Gaelic language is taught in a number of the leading American universities. At Harvard, Professor Robinson, one of the recognized philologists of the world, conducts Gaelic classes and is an enthusiastic Gaelic scholar. At the University of California, Professor O'Grady, a native of Donegal, who was brought over from Ireland to take that position, Professor O'Grady also conducts Gaelic classes in San Francisco. In the Catholic university of Washington, D. C., Gaelic is taught under the direction of Dr. Joseph R. Dunn, who not only speaks it fluently, but gives a large amount of his time to the translation of ancient Irish literature. Dr. Dunn also lectures at Yale upon the Gaelic language and has now in press a metrical translation of the ancient Gaelic saga, "Tain bo Cuiraleen."

Society is Very Popular.
 There is a flourishing Gaelic society in the national capital, which has a number of corresponding members in different cities. The object is to increase the knowledge and interest in this ancient vernacular. Its program consist of lectures and translations interspersed with old Irish melodies. Although only organized in 1907, this society has been instrumental in calling national attention to the wealth of literary achievement in the Gaelic language.

guage, which has been unknown to most of the world.

In his work upon Gaelic literature, Matthew Arnold deals extensively with the philological value of the Gaelic, which is one of the two great divisions of the Celtic language. The other division, the Cymric, which is the ancient language of Wales, is older and more analyzed than the Gaelic, but both give the philologist many useful hints and derivatives. In 1833, Ernst J. Zeuss, a distinguished German philologist, published a "Grammatica Celtica," which may be said to mark the beginning of general study of the Celtic languages and of Gaelic in particular.

Many distinguished French, German and English scientists are now engaged upon the elucidation of the Gaelic literature, which goes back to the eighth or ninth century. They began with no other help than the oldest Latin text and the dictionary of modern Irish. From these they were able by degrees to come down to the middle ages and even to the present time. It is considered a better method to go from the living language back to the middle Irish, which is still preserved by innumerable songs, stories, tracts and homilies and from these to work still farther back to the old texts which seem so obscure. Such great progress has been made that even the students themselves have been amazed at the wealth of material revealed.

League Working Valiantly.
 While the Gaelic league is working valiantly to increase interest in the preservation of this language, it must not be assumed that it ever has been a dead language or even in danger of becoming one. There are thousands of persons in different parts of the world who are speaking it today as it was transmitted to them from their forefathers. Owing to the dominance of the English, many families preserved it in their homes who have affected ignorance of it in public, although there always has been a large number who, from patriotic motives, absolutely refused to speak English.

The league already has been able to create so much sentiment in favor of the revival of the language that many old people now gather frequently for the express purpose of conversing in the language, they spoke as children and their expressions are being preserved for the use of future generations. As a result of the efforts of the league, during the past 15 years, Gaelic is now taught in about one-third of the public common schools in the United States. In all of the schools conducted by the different religious orders and in thousands of Gaelic league classes scattered throughout the island, it has been made an essential subject for examination for entrance into the new National university of Dublin and the league conducts no colleges for the training of teachers in the Gaelic tongue.

The churches, both Catholic and Protestant, have taught the enthusiasm for reviving the Gaelic and sermons in that language are frequent in all of the churches. On St. Patrick's day, 1912, 21 churches in Dublin held services in Gaelic. Language enthusiasts refuse to speak any other language except Gaelic, thus compelling the stores to employ Gaelic-speaking clerks. The street signs in Dublin and in other Irish cities are now given in both Gaelic and English and cabmen and draymen put Gaelic signs upon their vehicles.

Number of Periodicals.
 The interest is not confined to speaking the language, for most of the Irish papers publish some columns of Gaelic in their regular editions while others print occasional issues in the ancient text. In addition to these, there are a number of Gaelic periodicals, while each month an increasing number of Gaelic books are printed and distributed throughout the world. Several Gaelic publications are issued in the United States as well as in several other countries. In order to familiarize themselves with the Gaelic text and construction, a number of Gaelic students are devoting their time not only to translating the Gaelic into English, but in translating other works into Gaelic. One of the most noteworthy of these is the Gaelic translation of the Bible.

O'BRIEN-BOLLES SUIT IS AGAIN IN COURT

Plaintiff Seeks to Recover $301,000 Alleged to Be Due Him

William O'Brien will begin a legal fight in the district court this morning to recover $301,000 from Richard J. Bolles, his former business associate and from the Florida Fruit Lands company. A special venire of 50 has been summoned to furnish jurors to the case.

The suit is a part of the controversy between O'Brien and Bolles involving the Florida Fruit Lands company. Bolles, it is said, O'Brien brought a suit more than a year ago in the Florida courts for a one-fourth interest in the company. He won in the district court but the contract was set aside when the case was appealed to the supreme court. O'Brien then garnished $28,600 held in trust in the First National bank here during the Florida controversy, and secured an injunction prohibiting the bank from turning the money over to the Florida Fruit Lands company. He filed suits for $291,000 and $10,000 for legal services and for money advanced to Bolles and the Florida Fruit Lands company, and filed attachments against whatever property of Bolles or the company could be found in Colorado.

O'Brien alleged in his suit that the Florida Fruit Lands company was but a dummy or name under which Bolles carried on his business and holds property. He claims that Bolles owns all but one-half of one per cent of the stock in the company. It is said that Bolles has sold about 25,000 acres of this land since coming to the original purchase from the state of Florida. The Florida Fruit Lands company was organized three years ago.

WEISNER, LONG MISSING, MAY BE IN IOWA TOWN

Her of Police Bureau yesterday received word that a man answering the description of John Weisner, coal miner who disappeared December 10 from the Curtis coal mine north of the city has been found in Iowa. The information was given in a letter from P. H. Barrett of South Omaha. He stated that a man answering Weisner's description and apparently suffering from amnesia, had been held by the authorities of Graceland, Iowa. Photographs of Weisner and a more detailed description of him were sent yesterday to the authorities of Graceland, Iowa and Council Bluffs, Iowa, as the present whereabouts of the missing man could not be learned. Weisner mysteriously disappeared on the night of December 10. Early in December he received a severe shock by contact with a non-insulated electric wire at the mine, but it was then believed that he sustained no serious injury from it.

Parcel Post Has Sliding Scale for Food Stuffs

If you are preparing to send potatoes through the parcel post, it would be well to look up the regulations governing seeds, bulbs, roots, etc. It shows one of the incongruities of sending foodstuffs through the mails. Ten pounds of seed potatoes, if used for planting purposes alone will cost 89 cents if mailed to Pueblo. If they are to be used for cooking purposes, they will cost but 32 cents. The parcel post regulation says that seeds, cuttings, bulbs, and plants are third-class matter (1 cent for each two ounces or fraction thereof), and shall be treated accordingly. So watch for the eyes in potatoes.

notable works of this kind published in the United States is the translation of Edward Fitzgerald's version of The Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam into Gaelic. This is the recent work of John J. Carroll of Chicago who is an enthusiastic Gaelic student.

Dr. Dunn of the University of Chicago has prepared a monograph on the Gaelic literature giving a synopsis of its extent and subjects. Beginning before the middle ages Gaelic literature was of the epic type, and was by a class of dignitaries supported by the court for this purpose. Then came a period of decline in which were originated the wonderful fairy tales in which Ireland is so rich. Gaelic poetry, history and a considerable amount of astronomical and other scientific knowledge is included in this Gaelic literature which is gradually becoming known to the world.

75,000 people, many of whom do not speak any English but have preserved their native tongue in all its purity. Several newspapers printed in Gaelic keep this colony in touch with what transpires in the world. This colony was founded more than a century ago by Scottish Highlanders. There are two colleges in Nova Scotia attended largely by Gaelic-speaking students in which the language is taught. One of these is Presbyterian and the other Catholic. At a meeting of the Washington Gaelic society recently, addresses in the Gaelic language were made by Dr. Donald MacLeod, pastor of a prominent Presbyterian church of that city and by the Rev. Daniel J. MacDonald, a Catholic clergyman. Both of these gentlemen are native Gaelic speakers who learned the language during their childhood in their Nova Scotia homes, and both are enthusiastically working to increase its use, because although the Gaelic is a dying language, it has been associated with much of the most interesting history of the world.

EUGENE BENOIST BADLY FROZEN IN MOUNTAINS

Eugene Benoist, whose feet and legs were frozen nearly to the knees a week ago when he attempted, with the thermometer at 20 degrees below zero, to get a pack horse up the icy, snow-covered slopes of Pike's Peak to his cabin at the Hydro-Electric intake just above the Halfway house, was brought down the path yesterday on a sled and was taken to the Glickner sanatorium, where it may yet be found necessary to amputate parts of each foot. He was reported as resting easy at the hospital last night.

Benoist, who is a member of one of the oldest and most aristocratic French families in St. Louis, has been working for the electric company in various capacities for a year and a half. For months, he and his young wife of a year, who was formerly Mrs. Evelyn Blood Johnson of St. Louis, have been living in the mountain cabin, where Benoist is stationed because of his duties as caretaker at the intake.

Two weeks ago several men were sent up the mountain to repair damages due to frozen pipes. Road ran short and the chances of getting more up to the cabin seemed slim because of the great quantities of snow along the trail. Benoist volunteered to make the trip with a pack horse, and left this city early in the evening on his return. He was almost overcome by the time he reached Manitou, but his friends could not persuade him to give up the trip up the trail in the increasing cold and darkness. He set out to lead the horse up the trail, but the pathway was covered with ice and the animal fell every few yards.

Late that night, Mrs. Benoist, becoming alarmed, one of the men at the camp started down the trail to look for her husband. When he had been away so long as to arouse alarm at the camp, another man was sent after him. About midnight the men reappeared at the cabin, bringing Benoist and the horse with them. Both of his feet were badly frozen. They had found him along the trail, completely exhausted and unable to walk.

"LOUISIANA LOU" IS A LU LU, SAYS CRITIC

By S. F. N.
Playing to an exceptionally good sized audience, Harry Askey presented "Louisiana Lou" at the Grand opera house last night, being its first presentation in Colorado Springs. This piece ran for one year in Chicago before going on tour, where the press and public were unanimous in their praise.

From the principal characters down to the subdivision of the chorus, there is a good humored, rollicking breeziness that never allows interest to lag. All through the good things of the play there is a vim that is unusual.

One observation of this musical comedy leaves a deep-cut impression of Lidofock. The character is unique in musical comedy. Sam Liebart makes Lidofock a very appealing characterization.

Another surprising original piece of work is that of Anna Boyd in the part of Jennie Wimp of large proportions physically, vocally and humorously. Miss Boyd was seen here two seasons ago in "Madame Sherry." Zelle Call in the role of Della Locke the part and sings in good voice. Freddie is a nimble and original dancer and his work in the second act is strikingly good. Nice was seen here in "Bright Eyes" last year.

Other principals whose work is of high quality are Cecilia Novato as Louisiana Lou and James McElhern as Konkarnes, the political boss of New Orleans.

Louisiana Lou abounds in more generally popular and individual efforts, songs, than almost any other musical comedy made in Chicago. From the haunting "Waile to the Love Be Mad, mad" on through "Now Am De Time," "I Think You Think Too Much About Too Many," "Thank Not for Me" and "Louisiana Lou," to "My Rose of the Ghetto," touched with sentiment and a tear or two, the score has a character all its own. The costumes and mounting are new and fresh and the color scheme well worked out.

"Boiled down" the performance last evening was not the best $2.00 attraction this season, but it seemed that every one enjoyed the play.

Personal Mention

Miss Constance Pulitzer, daughter of the late Joseph Pulitzer of New York, who has been ill at Bethel hospital for the last two weeks, was taken to her home on North Cascade avenue yesterday.

Miss Ruth Loomis, dean of women at Colorado college, returned yesterday from a three weeks' visit in New York city, where she went for the Christmas holidays.
